appropriation for said bridge would not be made.

Mr. Frank Hume, a member of the Virginia legislature, agreed to ascertain the sense of the members of the legislature in the matter of retroceding a part of Alexandria county for the abutment for the memorial bridge, as required by Senator McMillan's proposition, or all of the county, as it was in the original establishment of the national capital. He considered that if the county bonded itself in the sum of $150,000 the United States government could hardly be expected to accept the retrocession of the county.

Race With United States for Supremacy in | Dog Owners to Attack Legality of the Com-World's Export Trade.

This Country Sent Abroad Thirty-Four Million Dollars Worth Less

Great Britain shows a "nose ahead" at the 1899 quarter pole in the neck-and-neck race between the United Kingdom and the United States for supremacy in the world's export trade. Domestic exports from the United Kingdom in 1899, according to offi-cial reports just received by the treasury bureau of statistics, were $1.287.971.000, while those from the United States were $1.253,486.000, making a difference of $34.-000,000 in favor of the United Kingdom in the year's exportation of domestic products, Compared, however, with relative condi-tions at the 1875 quarter pole the record of 1809 must prove quite gratifying to the tions at the 1875 quarter pole the record of 1899 must prove quite gratifying to the average American citizen.

In 1875 the exports of domestic merchandise from the United Kingdom were $1.087, 497,000, against $497,203,737 from the United States, her excess over the United States at that time being $590,233,000, against $24,000,000 in 1889. From 1875 to 1889 Great Britain's domestic exports increased from $1,087,497,000 to $1,287,971,000, or 19 percent, while those from the United States increased from $497,203,737 to $1,253,483,000, an increase of 152 per cent.

Adding to the domestic exports of each country those brought in from other parts of the world and re-exported we find that the total exports of the United Kingdom, including "domestic, foreign and colonial," were in 1875 $1,370,465,000 and in 1899 $1,240,288,674, an increase of 20 per cent, and those from the United States, including "domestic and foreign," were in 1875 $510,947,422 and in 1899 $1,275,486,641, an increase of 150 per cent.

Turning to the import side of the account the figures are equally interesting. Great Britain's imports in 1875 were $1,319,779,000 and in 1899 $2,360,629,000, while those of the United States, which in 1875 were $503,152,-936, were in 1899 $799,834,629. A comparison of the import figures with those of total exports shows an excess of exports from the United States in every year during the last twenty-five years except 1888, and in the case of the United Kingdom an excess last twenty-five years except 1888, and in the case of the United Kingdom an excess last twenty-five years except ISSS, and in the case of the United Kingdom an excess of imports in every year during the period.

In the case of the United States the excess of exports over imports in 1875 was $7,794,486 and in 1889 it was $475,652,021, while in the case of the United Kingdom the excess of imports over exports was in 1875 $449,314,909 and in 1889 $756,231,315.

During the twenty-five years under consideration the foreign commerce account of the United States shows a total excess of exports over imports amounting to $1, 570,564,000, while that of the United Kingdom shows an excess of imports over exports amounting to $14,489,004,000.

The following table, compiled from official reports, shows the exports of domestic merchandise from the United States and the United Kingdom, respectively, in each calendar year from 1875 to 1889, and indicates the relative growth during that period;

ARE USUALLY TIPPED OFF. The Footpud Discusses Detectives

Methods and Their Clues. course, I am a bear on the police stock market," said the footpad, as he critically sized up one of Washington's "finest," who did not recognize him, "and naturally cannot say anything especially good of them. I have no hard feelings, personally, you know, since they are earn-returning the compliment. partment for his valuable services during the war of the rebellion. He belonged to Col. R. L. McCook's 9th Ohio (German) Regiment.

Born in Prussia, Capt. Margedant came to this country in 1855. He organized a company at the outbreak of the civil war, mainly from the society of Turners, a gymnastic association, for service in defense of the Union, and three times received every water of his company for cantain which

"It's this way:

"Take former Inspector Byrne, the greatest of 'em all. Do you know what his method was, the underlying scheme of his 'success?' Stool pigeons. The setting of one thief against another to catch him. Getting the little thief to pike off the big fellow, when they were chasing that gamelow, when they were chasing that gam Playing the little fry against themselves, "Any blind man can follow a 'clue.' Som "Any blind man can follow a 'c'ue.' Some-body gives the detec's a clue or a tip. It is seldom they originate anything. Then they run it down and catch the man and the credit. 'Tis swift they are to let one know which officer made the arrest, but they forget who it was that tipped them off in he first instance. They are attacked by cute lapse of memory then. Very sad. "I will back ten good men on any newspaper against an even number of the mem bers of any police force in the country in pers of any ponce force in the country in ferreting out a crime or untangling a mystery. Like the old miner who builds his cabin on a rich lode of ore and abandons it unseen to the tenderfoot to find, so it is often that the most experienced men on the detective force overlook or ignore the vital theory of a case. The bight young week. theory of a case. The bright young men of The Star had Krebs dead to rights while my chums, the detec's, were still detecting.

"No better example of this curious ex white my chums, the detec's, were still detecting.

"No better example of this curious example of a policeman's nature and the conduct of his business can be given than the unwarranted arrest of the English tourist by your force a few months ago. His documents, especially his Masonic papers, etc., aside from his own story and other satisfactory proof, demonstrated indubitably (thanks for that word, I was stuck) that he was not the Pittsburg thief the police took him for. They knew, too, that they were wrong; yet they held him a prisoner for several days. That fellow, though, had so much nerve and sang froid that he'd been a credit to my profession. Blind trails, cold scents and twisted theories are nuts to them in some cases.

"Look at the Dorsey Fouliz case! Why—no, I won't, either. We'll pass that.

"Was it the detec's that arrested Krebs in New York with the knife in his pocket? Yes, a private detec' in a store, after he had been kindly pointed out by the lady whom he had followed. Ditto here, only Mr. Chance was the detec' and the blue-coated Hawkshaw-Sherlock couldn't see it, even to take him into custody.

"It's luck, pure and simple luck and accident in a majority of cases, that enables a detec' to land his man behind the blues. What's that? I'm a lawbreaker myself, and my opinion doesn't amount to much? Say! you're too kind. T'anks. But you're wrong. Why, to a certain extent I support the decent citizen to maintain the law. Yes, I do: no guff. The decent citizen is—but that's another story."

fair recently held under the auspices of the organization, and stated that a full report will be made next month.

In accordance with the recommendation of the legislative committee, a standing committee of five was authorized for the purpose of considering all matters which affect the allied printing trades. The committee also reported that through the efforts of its members the amendment to the census bill, which provided for having some of the census printing done elsewhere than the government printing office, was defeated.

of the city assembled in Washington Hall, corner of Pennsylvania avenue and 3d street southeast, Saturday evening and formed the "Dog Owners' Association." Mr. T. Edward Clark was made temporary chairman and Mr. J. B. Chamberlain was appointed temporary secretary.

The object of the meeting was stated by Mr. Clark, who said he had called the meeting after consultation with a number of dog owners, who thought that the Dis-trict Commissioners had no right to issue their recent muzzling order, and he had also secured the opinion of two leading lawyers, who were of the opinion that the lawyers, who were of the opinion that the law which provided for the collection of a license fee was unconstitutional. It was proposed, he said, to test the legality of the regulation and constitutionality of the license law in the courts. This would cost about $200, and a small contribution from each of the owners of the $600 dogs in the city would provide for this.

A permanent organization of the association was then formed and the temperary chairman and secretary were elected as permanent officers to occupy the positions named.

named.

Mr. Joseph Auerbach was elected vice president by acclamation, as was also Mr. William Wagner as treasurer.

At the suggestion of Mr. John Fleming the office of second vice president was created. Mr. Fleming said there are a number of ladies who are dog fanciers, and he thought a lady should be elected as a vice president. The suggestion was adopted and Mrs. Horace P. Springer was chosen.

Order Described as Observed. Order Described as Obnoxious.

Resolutions offered by Mr. D. W. Keck

vere adopted to the effect that the Comissued an obnoxicus and oppressive muzzling order in snow time, and in various ways show a disposition to oppress the ways slow a displacement of the holders of property in dogs, and that it was best for the interests of all dog owners that they band themselves together for mutual protection.

The question was raised as to the advisability of attacking the validity of the license law. This law was, Mr. Sunderland said, a protection to dogs. He had been informed by a veterinary surgeon that there are now several thousand cases of rabies in the city. What was wanted, he said, was to get the muzzle order revoked. This suggestion was indersed by several speakers, one of whom urged that proceedings be at once taken to have an injunction issued against the District Commissioners to prevent the further execution of the muzzle order. muzzle order.

Mr. Keck remarked that he quite agree with the others who had addressed the with the others who had addressed the meeting as to the usefulness of the hoense law. He said he did not believe that there were any cases of rables in the city, the opinion of the veterinary surgeon referred to by Mr. Sunderland to the contrary not-withstanding.

As Commonly Understood.

Mr. Sunderland explained that when he spoke of rables he meant the term as commonly understood and such as frightened The chair said he did not think it was proper to discuss the question of rabies at this meeting.

Another speaker suggested that the whole question of whether of not the validity of the license law should or should not be attacked ought to be left to the action of the executive committee/and upon a vote being taken it was decided to confine the efforts of the association to the securing of an injunction to prevent the further execution of the muzzie regulation by the police authorities. this meeting.

Past Department Commander Thomas S. FAVOR ANNEXATION. A meeting of the committee on legisla-tion of the board of development of Alex-the Senate committee on the District of Columbia, intimated that unless the state of Virginia would give up a certain portion of Alexandria, county upon which the Vir-ginia abutment of the memorial bridge was to be placed the probability was that the appropriation for said bridge would not be made.

Resolved, That this meeting is in favor of guished Him.

Capt. W. C. Margelant died recently in for three years.

Soon after his arrival in western Virginia Gen. McClellan detailed him as topon

The 9th Ohio, in the same report, received especial mention by name for its work, a record made and kept sacredly until its nuster out in the fall of 1864.

When Gen. Rosecrans took command of the Army of the Cumberland the captain accompanied him and remained until after Chickamauga, where he was transferred to the personal staff of Gen. Geo. H. Thomas. Again the former general noticed his efficiency in his report to the President as follows: "It is my duty to notice these faithful officers who have none but myself to mention them. Capt. W.C. Margedant, topographical engineer on the field of battle, discharged his duties with zeal and ability." Refusing any escort, the captain left the Widow Glenn's house, then the headquarters, and at a critical moment galloped toward the enemy's lines, in search of desired information for his commender. The 9th Ohio, in the same report, received ly needed with this army, is ordered to re-main in the field, and will not be mustered out of service."

Those who soldiered with "Pap" Thomas know the value of such an order from this Chickamauga.

At the request of the assistant secretary of war, Mr. Dana, he furnished the department with copies of photographs of war scenes, some two hundred in number, which
